Flood in Chirang::

Assam is one of the most flood prone states in India. The state faces acute flooding in the floodplains of river Brahmaputra and Barak basins and other smaller river sub-basins. The state Assam falls in the highest rainfall intensity zone in the country. The precipitation is mainly due to the South West monsoon i.e. June to September. Average rainfall in the region is very high and ranges from 1750mm in the plains to about 6400 mm in the hills.

The Chirang District experiences the havoc of flood every year. Besides normal flood, the major problem for the Chirang District is due to flash flood. This flash flood normally occurs due to heavy raining in the upper catchment of Bhutan (adjoining districts of Bhutan). Every year a large number of people are rendered homeless due to severe erosion. The major rivers in the district are mainly Aie River, Champa River, Bhur, Nangalbhangha, Huthuti, etc.
